

New Course

BSC 4933/6932

Sustainability of Natural Resources

Offered in Spring 2025
Tue & Thu 2:00-3:15pm

Interested in Sustainability and Climate Change?

We will explore the wide range of renewable natural resources as the cornerstone for supporting a sustainable future: food crops, forestry, oceans, water, biomass, and algae.

We will cover global challenges in energy, water, and food security and their interconnections through a systems thinking approach.

For any questions, contact:

George Philippidis, Ph.D.
Associate Professor
Department of Integrative Biology &
Patel College of Global Sustainability

gphilippidis@usf.edu

