

STORIES-TO-LIVE-BY ECOJUSTICE LITERACIES SERIES

First Person Narratives on Climate Change with The Marjorie

Saturday, February 1, 2025
11:00 a.m. - 12:30 p.m. EST
Lunch provided at 12:30 p.m.

Offered as part of a Spencer Grant with USF College of Education faculty member, Dr. Alexandra Panos.

Join us for this free workshop!

This workshop will provide background on teaching amidst the climate crisis here in Florida as part of our new ongoing series, Stories-to-live-by Ecojustice Literacies Series. In our first event, editors from The Marjorie will discuss their Dispatches from a Sinking State series, featuring first-person accounts of the environmental changes Floridians are witnessing across the state. Participants will receive prompts to craft their own narrative and engage in rich discussion and sensemaking focused on incorporating this activity into the classroom. All participants will be invited to join a network of educators dedicated to teaching for a sustainable future here in Florida.

The Marjorie is Florida's independent reporting outlet dedicated to the critical intersection of social justice and the environment.

REGISTER NOW

<https://forms.office.com/r/8yX390iweH>

SATURDAY
FEBRUARY 1, 2025
11:00 AM - 12:30 P.M.

FREE TO ATTEND
LUNCH IS PROVIDED

Meet the Speakers

Becca Burton

Co-Founder &
Communications Director
The Marjorie

Anna Hamilton

Co-Founder &
Development Director
The Marjorie

David C. Anchin Center for the Advancement of Teaching
www.usf.edu/anchin @USFAnchin

The Marjorie | www.themarjorie.org

Questions?

Rachel Hatten, PhD
rachelhatten@usf.edu