

The David C. Anchin Center for the Advancement of Teaching Presents:

CRAFTING AUTHENTIC VOICES

A Writing Instruction Workshop with Pulitzer Prize Winner Lane DeGregory

Join us for a dynamic professional learning workshop tailored for secondary English Language Arts teachers who are passionate about elevating their students' writing skills. In this session led by Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist Lane DeGregory, participants will delve into best practices in writing instruction, with a focus on nurturing authentic voices in student writing.

January 31, 2024

6:00 – 7:30 p.m.

Dinner is provided at 5:30 p.m.

TECO Hall
Anchin Center
USF College of Education, Tampa
Campus

Workshop Highlights:

- Unlocking Creativity with Nonfiction Prompts: Explore a diverse array of nonfiction writing prompts designed to ignite creativity and foster original thought.
- Breaking Free from Formulaic Writing: Delve into strategies for liberating students from the constraints of formulaic writing. Lane DeGregory will share insights and techniques to encourage students to break free from writing ruts and embrace innovative approaches to composition.
- Supporting Perspective Taking and Idea Development: Learn practical methods for guiding students in the art of perspective taking and idea development. Discover how to cultivate a classroom environment that encourages thoughtful exploration, critical thinking, and the development of unique voices in writing.
- Facilitator Expertise: Gain valuable insights into the world of professional writing and how these experiences can inform and inspire authentic writing practices in your students.

LANE DEGREGORY

REGISTER NOW

www.tinyurl.com/writingwithlane

Questions: Dr. Rachel Hatten | rachelhatten@usf.edu