

Poetic Pedagogy: Empowering New ELA Educators in the Art of Teaching Poetry

FREE TO ATTEND

Breakfast is provided at 8:30 a.m.

SATURDAY, February 17, 2024

9:00 am – 12:00 pm

TECO Hall

USF College of Education, Tampa Campus

Register: www.tinyurl.com/anchinpoetry

Target Audience:

Secondary ELA and reading teachers,
school and district leaders, and USF
students.

What You'll Learn:

- Discuss best practices in teaching poetry to secondary students.
- Explore teaching strategies to help engage students in authentic interaction with poetry, especially around tone, ambiguity, and theme.
- Develop the skills to guide students in identifying common misconceptions in reading and understanding poetry.
- Collaborate with peers and network with fellow ELA and reading teachers.

UNIVERSITY of SOUTH FLORIDA

David C. Anchin Center for the Advancement of Teaching

www.usf.edu/anchin

@USFAnchin

MEET THE FACILITATOR

Tammy Schoen

Tammy Schoen is celebrating her 33rd year as a teacher. She taught in South Carolina from 1991-1997 prior to moving to South Florida. Tammy taught at Coconut Creek High School until helping to open Coral Glades High School in 2003. At Coral Glades, Tammy teaches AP Literature (and whatever else they give her) and serves as the Literacy Department Chair. Tammy has been active in many College Board programs: she has been a reader for AP Literature since 2003, and a Table Leader for all three essay questions. Tammy has led AP half-day and full-day workshops as a national consultant, taught summer APSI's and is a proud member of the Design Team who worked to create more support content for AP teachers everywhere through the new CED and AP Classroom. In her spare time, Tammy enjoys reading, traveling and spending time with her family.

CONTACT US

Dr. Rachel Hatten

rachelhatten@usf.edu